Refractories: ICR 2024 - Conference Proceedings now Available.

All presentations accessible to non-attendees.

Höhr-Grenzhausen, November 1, 2024

On September 18-19, 2024, Europe's largest refractory event, the 66th International Colloquium on Refractories (ICR), took place in Aachen. Attendance increased by three percent this year, reaching 669 participants.

Conference tickets included access to the 197-page proceedings, featuring contributions from 55 speakers. These proceedings compile presentations, graphics, tables, and comprehensive literature overviews.

The refractory industry utilized this conference to gain insights into the latest advancements in technology and to engage in valuable discussions with presenters and fellow participants.

This exchange of knowledge is crucial for advancing and implementing the industry's forthcoming production and application challenges.

For those unable to attend the conference, the proceedings are now available for a limited time at a price of 99 euros (including VAT).

Upon payment through the Tentary shop system, a download link for the proceedings (57 MB) will be sent.
